Comments: I am a research nurse working in the field of genetic analyses of cardiac arrhythmias. I urge the immediate acceptance and use of internationally validated non-animal tests. Substantial time and money are wasted on animal tests that are not able to be translated into beneficial human treatment modalities.

There are significant gains being made in several fields of medicine using non-animal testing. I am deeply concerned the USA, by its overdependence on animal testing, is falling behind in these areas of research.

Thank you.

Marisa A. Shea, RN
